

Wait, Beloved, for Darkness Gift

The reader of these poems perhaps caught in darkness must know that the journey of life is so special and sacred that all gentleness is meant herein. If these poems are in any way intrusive, they should be set aside for another day when, perhaps, another light can be shed on them. There is only intent to spread the abounding love I have experienced, nothing else. This peace, this joy, this bliss I know it to be God's intention for all humanity. Be well; noel! Alleluia!
